"My first experience with The Washington Times' classified columns was a 'ringing success,' said Mortimer M. Harris, 1633 L street northwest, today.

"The other day Mrs. Harris told me she needed a maid and asked me to put an ad in one of the papers. Having heard so much about the wonderful results obtained by using 'The Washington Times' classified columns, I decided to try them my-self. I put in the regulation size ad under the 'help wanted' classification. About an hour later my wife telephoned me that before I had called her a dozen or more ap-plicants had appeared and expressed willingness to go to work at once Applicants continued to stream to our home all afternoon and kept up a continual serenade on the door-bell. By 6 o'clock, just a few hours atfer the paper was on the street, the procession of applicants had grown to such proportions and the ringing of the doorbell so madden-ing that in self-defense I had to renove the bell from the door. counted eighty-one applcants, but lost count after that."

"DOOR-BELL SERENADE" DRY AGENTS GRAB CARS IN MONTANA

Fourteen Fast Autos, Caught in Thrilling Chases, Pass to Uncle Sam.

BILLINGS, Mont., March 21 .- Montana bootleggers contributed fourteen fast motor cars, valued at $45,000, to the miscellaneous possessions of Uncle Sam during the 'year just passed. Thirteen motor cars involved in cases still pending are in possession of the Federal Government, while contraband liquors valued at more than $50,000 have been destroyed and United States courts have disposed of fifty cases, the Government failing to btain a conviction in only one.

These figures were given out by United States Marshal Joseph Ashoridge, here to attend a meeting of the Montana Pioneers' Association, who suggests that these figures could ot be considered as a poor prohibition showing in view of the fact that the public is not generally showing a very keen interest in the enforcement of prohibition measures in the State.

The records of arrests in Montana for violation of the prohibition laws show some decidedly interesting and thrilling experiences on the part of officials and those to whom they gave and through vales, knows no fear when it comes to "stepping on her," while in the driver's seat of a fast motor car. They know the roads and they also know the short cuts, whether they be through an almost impassable coulee or across a plain with cactus beds and jagged rocks as the "carpet" for cars to pass over.

Canadian whiskey - runners have been here and they have nearly always been taken by Montana officers and Federal law enforcement men who are native to the State and the West.
